Lecture For School Benefit.

A lecture will be given in the City School Chapel to-night at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the Paris Board of Education, for the benefit of the school library, by Prof. Beresford Greathouse, the well-known traveler.

The subject chosen is one of special interest to Kentuckians: "The South and Its Future," from the point of view of a man who has traveled thousands of miles to gather material for writing a book on this very subject.

Prof. Greathouse has been through many Southern States and has kept his eyes and ears wide open and undoubtedly his opinion of the South is of much value.

The book he is writing about our customs, our homes and our dear ones will have a large circulation in England, and it is well that we should know what he intends to say about us.

Let everyone, therefore, who has Kentucky at heart, go and hear this lecture which will probably reveal to us things we never thought of before—the South seen through the eyes of a stranger.

The admission will be 25 cents; reserved seats, 50 cents.

The Right Idea.

Clarence L. Humbert, the genial and popular manager of the Home Telephone, had the right idea about celebrating Christmas and put it into practical effect. Before Christmas day arrived Mr. Humbert figured up and found that Christmas presents to well-to-do friends in 1904 had cost him about $100. He then concluded to change his program this year and invest the $100 in the necessities of life for the poor of our city. He spent several days looking up the needy poor and we know of a number of families he made happy Christmas morning by sending to them bountiful filled baskets, coal, etc., besides contributing to the charity fund in the different churches.

Mr. Humbert also surprised his fifteen telephone girls by placing two tables, laden with the delicacies of the season, in the reception hall at Home plant, making them feel that their services were appreciated.

No cleverer or bigger hearted gentleman ever walked the streets of Paris than Clarence L. Humbert.

An Unfortunate Occurrence.

Colonel James Allen, that bright bachelor-editor of the Cynthiana Democrat, recited off the following in his last issue:

"Of course if it could have been otherwise, it should have been otherwise. That is to say, Christmas, Court Day and Wash Day should not have fallen together, like they will fall next Monday. Did you ever hear the like? Such a mixture as never was of Santa Claus, mistletoe, bon-bons, fire crackers, soapsuds, horse traders, chocolate drops, stock ewes, pin cushions, egg-nog, bull calves, black cake, oranges, mule colts, wash boards, pearline and plain and fancy drinks. That's a nice mess for a stocking. If it were not for disappointing the children, Santa should be advised to steer clear of Cynthiana this year. Even as it is the old fellow should be warned; for if he comes galloping over the house tops a little late in the morning, half a dozen Pennsylvania greezers are liable to chase him off the map in an effort to trade him out of his reindeers. He had better keep away from the "ring" across the river, too, or his team won't be worth a jack-knife. So here's hoping the good old guy will get in his work early and be far away before Pennsylvania and Kelat get a move on."

Flagman and Electric Bells Ordered For Clintonville Crossing.

County Attorney Denis Dundon received a letter, yesterday, from A. T. Siler, Railroad Commissioner, telling him that action had been taken on the petition of the citizens of Paris and Bourbon county filed in his office asking for a flagman at the L. & N. Clintonville crossing, near town. Mr. Siler visited here last week and took in the surrounding at this place in company with Superintendent W. H. Anderson, of the L. & N. He now notifies Mr. Dundon that the Railroad Commission has ordered the L. & N. people to place a flagman at this crossing in the day time and to have electric bells put up for danger signals at night. The order was to go into effect at once.

The Hibernian Social.

One of the most enjoyable occasions of the season was the social session of the Ancient Order of Hibernians at their lodge room Wednesday evening. Mr. P. I. McCarthy was master of ceremonies and opened the session by calling on Messrs. Geo. Brown, Henry Santen and Barney Brannon for song. These gentlemen delighted the company with their singing during the evening. Eloquent speeches were made by Hon. E. M. Dickson, Judge Harmon Stitt and Mr. Dan Sullivan, the incoming President. An elegant luncheon was served. It was an occasion long to be remembered by those present, an evening of instruction, wit and song. When it comes to entertaining The Hibernians stand at the head of the class.

Opened Blackburn's Mail.

Investigating a complaint made by Senator J. C. S. Blackburn that his mail was being opened by some one in the Governor's office, an inspector connected with the Postoffice Department in Washington, was in Frankfort last week. He conducted an examination of local conditions, found that three letters addressed to Senator Blackburn had been received at the Governor's office and two of them had been opened, the third having been remailed and delivered to the Senator in Washington.

Colonel James Allen, that bright bachelor-editor of the Cynthiana Democrat, recited off the following in his last issue:

"Of course if it could have been otherwise, it should have been otherwise. That is to say, Christmas, Court Day and Wash Day should not have fallen together, like they will fall next Monday. Did you ever hear the like? Such a mixture as never was of Santa Claus, mistletoe, bon-bons, fire crackers, soapsuds, horse traders, chocolate drops, stock ewes, pin cushions, egg-nog, bull calves, black cake, oranges, mule colts, wash boards, pearline and plain and fancy drinks. So here's hoping the good old guy will get in his work early and be far away before Pennsylvania and Kelat get a move on."

Due Time . . .

I thank everyone who bought anything from me this Christmas.

I tried my best to serve you well and my efforts were certainly rewarded. I enjoyed the greatest business in the history of my career.

Remember everything you got of me was sold to you on a strict guarantee. I am here to make good.

I wish you all a happy new year, good health and prosperity. Yours truly,

C. B. MITCHELL.

STOCK AND CROP.

Judge Osborne, of Cynthiana, advocates the organization of the tobacco growers into the "Burley Growers' Union." The contract which growers are invited to sign appoints the "Union" salesman or exclusive agent of the tobacco growers. The obligate themselves to hold the tobacco until October 10, 1906. If 75 per cent. of the growers do not sign the contract is to be void. It is proposed to fix the prices on crops at 8 to 16 cents, on cigarette tobacco, 10 to 30 cts. This is a similar scheme to the one used by the farmers in the dark belt and through which they are now receiving a largely increased price for their product.

Missouri's corn crop this year amounted to 242,000,000 bushels, valued at $87,000,000, which is the third largest yield of corn ever raised in the State.

Madison county woman sold fifty-five Christmas turkeys at $2.15 each.

A number of Swiss families have already been secured by the Shelby County Colonization Company and have been located on the lands bought for that purpose.

Eldred Bean, on Todd's road, near Winchester, sold on Christmas Day, his 200 acre farm to Mr. Holton, of Mt. Sterling, for $30,000, or $150 per acre, cash.

The Hon. Henry Martin, of Midway, sold his livery stable in New Orleans for $100,000 for which he paid $35,000.

John B. Kennedy sold to the Continental Co. 20,000 pounds of tobacco at 10 cents per pound.

PETER denied his Christ, Judas Iscariot betrayed his Master, but Chas. B. Ecton not only takes the cake, but the plum-pudding.

If Sen-a-tor Chas. B. Ecton, of the County of Clark, feels that he is now compelled to vote for Paynter, had any sense or common decency he would resign.

WE would rather be a horse-thief than a traitor, wouldn't you? Whose a horse-thief? Don't know. Whose a traitor? Echo answers, Charlie B. Ecton. That is, of course, if he votes for Paynter.

LET every Democrat in the county attend the indignation meeting to be held at the Court House, Monday, at 2 o'clock, to resolve against one, Charlie B. Ecton, the Clark County traitor, who has so beautifully held us up.

BE a man, Charlie Ecton, and tell how they got to you. Hand back the purse, if necessary, then we can have inscribed on your tomb, "here lies an honest man." It will be far better for you, my dear sir, and for your posterity, than anything in the power of the "machine" to give you, than to have on your tomb, "here lies the man who disgraced himself, his family, and the people who elected him to the State Senate—he is now enjoying his just reward in hell with the other traitors."

ECTON was the loudest talking, most rampant Blackburn man in Kentucky when making his race in the primary; why he had our old soldiers in Bourbon working night and day for him. They would have fought you in a minute to have intimated that Charlie Ecton would vote for Paynter. That salve, though, used by the "machine" took effect without much rubbing. That Allie Young and Henry Prewitt are two of the hypnotists employed by the "machine" and know how to pick out a subject. Didn't they get the old boy under their hypnotic influence easy. He was about the easiest subject we have yet heard of.

THIS Senatorial District is overwhelmingly for Blackburn. The people so expressed themselves at the polls by electing Chas. B. Ecton to the Senate, upon his unqualified pledge that he would vote for Blackburn "first, last and all the time." Now comes along the little infernal "machine," run by Beckham, Hager and Haley and others, and by some underhand and dirty means gets this man to vote for Paynter. Answer us, is not this a clear instance of the "machine" defeating the will of the people? We do not believe the people of Kentucky will stand this "machine" rule much longer. Ecton can vote for Paynter, but you can gamble on the people against the "machine" when the time comes.

In a card over the signature of C. B. Ecton, dated Winchester, Ky., April 5, 1905, we find this paragraph:

"I announced publicly and privately, by word of mouth and from the heart, and through the newspapers, throughout the district my position on every question, and especially when called upon early in the canvas by the Democrats of Montgomery county, I unhesitatingly announced fourteen months ago my unqualified preference for the Hon. J. C. S. Blackburn as United States Senator from Kentucky to succeed himself. I did not wait until nearly 'the last day in the evening' to let the people know 'where I was at' on this or any other question involved in this race."

Upon this statement and others made in person and through the press, Chas. B. Ecton was introduced around by the Confederate soldiers of Bourbon county and the people gave him one of the largest majorities ever given to a man in the county. Not because it was Charlie Ecton, but because he was such a strong Blackburn man. We doubt, if there is a county in Kentucky, that would poll more votes for Jo. Blackburn than Bourbon. He is, in fact, stronger in this Senatorial District than any man in Kentucky. And only think at "the last day in the evening" that this same man, if he is a man, to announce he will vote for Paynter. Tell us, Clark County Democrats, what kind of a thing is this you have run us up against? He surely is not one of your representative citizens? Why don't you run him out of your county for the sake of decency, if not for the sake of the good people we know that live in your grand old county.

Cross Eyed Angels.

Near the village of Monterey, Mass., in the heart of the Berkshires, on a knoll peculiarly well fashioned for its uses, is a burying ground of the Revolutionary period which possesses more than ordinary interest by reason of its well preserved headstones. These headstones were cut from a native stone which has endured the elements so well for more than a hundred years that the inscriptions are now almost as easily read as they were when the stones were set in position. A striking peculiarity is found in the carvings on the headstones, apparently all the work of one sculptor, who had a specialty in the creation of cross eyed angels. Almost every one of the old headstones is ornamented at the top with the head of an angel, and each angel face is unmistakably and painfully cross eyed. This characteristic has led some guests near the burying ground to call it the "cemetery of cross eyed angels."—New York Tribune.

Cooking Fish In Clay.

"The natives of the north woods have more appetizing ways to cook fish than any other class of cooks in the world, I believe," said a Tomah man.

"The universal favorite, however, seems to be the clay method. The fish is wrapped in the clay without having so much as a scale ruffled by the cleaning knife. He is not dressed, and the only seasoning is a pinch of salt placed in the mouth. When the fish is done up in the clay the package is placed in the embers of the campfire to bake. When it is done the clay is cracked open, and the scales of the fish are found to be sticking in the clay, and the head is then broken off.

The delicate flavor of a fish cooked in this way cannot be described. Some of the cooks have a habit of cutting a long gash along each side of the dorsal fin and inserting a slice of fat bacon. This adds greatly to the flavor of the fish."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

A Strange Thunderstorm.

It was a strange thunderstorm that struck Suffolk, England, Aug. 4, 1577. According to Hollinshead, the tempest of lightning came through the wall of Blisborough church and went a yard into the ground, knocking over twenty people and killing two. Then it came up again, mounted the steeple by way of the vestry door, broke the bells and darted off to Bungay, six miles distant. There, according to another chronicler, it became a fiery black dog, which dashed between two people kneeling in church and broke their necks and clawed another man on the back so that he was "presently drawn together and shrank up, as it were, a piece of leather scorched in a hot fire." Claw marks remained on the door to prove the reality of the black dog.

Taylor, who had had nothing to do with the difficulty, without any provocation, shot Allen in the face, inflicting a rather serious wound. Marshal Leonard Howard was summoned at once and succeeded in arresting Taylor near the bridge. Later in the day he was taken to Paris and lodged in jail. The bride is a relative of the Wood family and was making them a visit at the time cupid united their hearts. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Ewing left for Florida for a six weeks' sojourn amid the flower beds and orange blossoms.

On Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock both old and young were made happy at the Methodist Church, when the spacious auditorium was thrown open and a beautiful Christmas tree, filled with everything that is calculated to make all happy, fell upon the vision of the beholders. Miss Hunter is one of the most popular young ladies in Northern and Central Kentucky, and is a graduate of the Millersburg Female College. In wedding Mr. Best she returns to the home of her ancestors. Her mother was Miss Nannie Boulden, was born and spent her early life in this town, across the street from where Mr. and Mrs. Best will reside. Talk of Lynching.

Mrs. Florence Watson, wife of a well-known lawyer of Mt. Sterling, was shot and badly wounded at a dance there by John Flarity, a former suitor, who, she alleged, insulted her while dancing with her. Hope for her recovery has been abandoned and there is talk of lynching, should Mrs. Watson die.

Mr. Lucien Buckner, one of the editors and owner of the Winchester Sun-Sentinel has sold his interest to his partner, Mr. R. R. Perry. Mr. Perry will run the paper alone. During Mr. Beckner's connection with that paper it has been one of the brightest and newsiest weeklies in the State.

The Fun Begins Monday.

Chairman McQuown, of the Democratic State Central and Executive Committee, Tuesday, issued calls for separate caucuses of the House and Senate for next Monday night, and a call for the joint caucus on Tuesday night. At the Monday night caucus of the House the preliminary skirmish in the Senatorial race will take place. The race for the Speakership will be the paramount issue, and interest centers on the fight between R. W. Miller, of Madison, and Henry Lawrence, of Cadiz. Both sides are confident of winning, and it appears that this will be the hardest of the campaign before the Legislature.

While the call provides simply for the organization of the joint caucus and the election of officers, it is within the province of the caucus to take up the Senatorial nomination, and it is extremely probable that the question will be brought to an issue Tuesday night.

OLD TIME ADVICE TO TRAVELERS.

Edward Leigh's "Hints For Travelers" was published at the end of the sixteenth century. Only those who speak Latin should travel, he says, and every one should be well grounded "in the true religion" lest he be perverted abroad. Travelers should know their own country before being allowed to leave it. Before his voyage the traveler "should make his peace with God, receive the Lord's supper, satisfy his creditors if he be in debt, pray earnestly to God to prosper him on his voyage and to keep him from danger, and he should make his last will and wisely order all his affairs, since many that go abroad return not home."

THE WORD "LONDON."

What is the derivation of the word "London?" The usually accepted one is the Celtic "Llyn-Din," or lake city, referring to the historical fact that this city was built on a river that overflowed at full tide and half surrounded it. Other philologists have derived it from "lawn" (full) and "dyn" (man), others again from "lon" (a plain) and "dun" (a hill). But the derivation London, or "grove city," seems more probable than most of these. The name occurs in wooded parts of Scandinavia to this day.

THE REIGNING PRINCESS.

Every girl who has married and moved to another town learns in course of time how it feels to be a monarch: who is deprived of his kingdom. She is a princess before marriage and has the front room upstairs. She marries, moves away, her sister next in years becomes the reigning monarch, and when the married woman returns home on a visit some years later she finds herself relegated to a back bedroom, with her sister, the princess, on a throne in the front room.—Atchison Globe.

THE QUEER PART.

"Mary," said a Kansas City (Kan.) man to his wife recently, "I had a queer dream last night. I dreamed you had a pair of wings. St. Peter had just given you and I was trying to fit them on you. Wasn't it queer that your wings didn't fit you?" "Yes," she replied, "but that wasn't the queerest part of it." "What was?" "The fact that you were there," she replied.—Kansas City Times.

SUNFLOWER PHILOSOPHY.

WEDDING PRESENTS FOR MISS ROOSEVELT

The following is a true story of an incident that happened in an English village:

A husband had gone out for the evening and left his wife and child at home. The woman was about to retire for the night when, to her amazement, she perceived the foot of a man beneath the bed. Instead of calling for assistance, as some would have done, she coolly went to the child's cot and sat and sang till the child went to sleep. Two hours later she remained before her husband came in. He was surprised to find her waiting up, but when his wife handed him an envelope, saying, "You might run and post this," the cause of her waiting was revealed. Instead of a letter the following was written on the envelope: "A burglar is under our bed. Run; fetch police." The husband returned in a minute with a policeman, and the man was arrested. The burglar when brought up before the magistrate remarked that he had come across a few brave women in his time, but this one must have had a nerve like iron, for she sat there for three solid hours. He had the impression that she didn't know he was there till the policeman pulled him out.

MICE ENLISTED IN NAVY.

[New York Press.]

White mice are on the pay roll of the British navy. An officer attached to the squadron of Prince Louis of Battenburg so asserted while here the other day. We have been told countless times that rats always desert a sinking ship. These white mice do not. They are employed on the submarines and are regarded among the crews as life preservers. The sinking of the below-sea monsters of destruction has no fears for them.

"There diminutive rodents," says the officer referred to, "receive a shilling a week and full navy rations.

Their work consists in watching the gasoline tanks to detect any escape of vapor. Some naturalist has found that white mice are extremely sensitive stimuli affecting the olfactory nerves. We make use of this by keeping a few of the little creatures always near the gasoline tanks when we are under way, and we watch them very closely. When they set up a continuous squeaking it is time to look to the tanks. There may be but a tiny leak, yet these animals are sure to detect it, and by their actions give immediate warning. We give them the best of care and consider them very necessary and important members of our crews."

A REFORM THAT MIGHT EXTEND.

The Santa Fe Railroad has begun a reform that might well extend among the railroads of the country. It has thrown out all of its coaches used as

"smokers" and has put in their places

new cars of the strongest construction. We all know that when two trains come together in a terrible acident, most of the lives lost are those of the passengers riding in the smoking cars. The "smoker" is usually placed nearest the engine, and is apt to be the oldest car in use on the train. It is only fair that the cars carrying passengers that are to incur the great risk in the case of collision should be the strongest car in the train.

JERRY HOLDS HIS OWN.

Samuel Hubbard tells the following story about the late Jerry Simpson, for sometime Senator from Kansas.

Simpson was bitterly opposed to the policy of the government in acquiring the Philippines, and stated his views in such scathing terms that Representative Cannon, who replied to him, said: "If the gentleman from Kansas voiced such sentiments in Manila, he would be shot as a traitor." Immediately Jerry Simpson was on his feet and drawled out: "I would rather take my chances of being shot in the Philippines than sit here and be fired upon by a rusty, old, muzzle-loading

Cannon from Illinois!"

Is Disease a Crime?

Not very long ago, a popular magazine published an editorial article in which the writer asserted, in substance, that all disease should be regarded as criminal. Certain it is, that much of the sickness and suffering of mankind is due to the violation of certain of Nature's laws. But to say that all sickness should be regarded as criminal, must appeal to every reasonable individual as radically wrong.

It would be harsh, unsympathetic, cruel, yet criminal, to condemn the poor, weak, over-worked housewife who sinks under the heavy load of household cares and burdens, and suffers from weaknesses, various displacements of pelvic organs and other derangements peculiar to her sex.

Frequent bearing of children, with its exacting demands upon the system, coupled with the care, worry and labor of rearing a large family, is often the cause of weaknesses, deformities and infirmities which are aggravated by the many household cares, and the hard, and never-ending work which the mother is called upon to perform. Dr. Pierce, the maker of that world-famed remedy for women's peculiar weaknesses and ills, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—says that one of the greatest obstacles to the cure of this class of maladies is the fact that the poor, over-worked housewife can not get the needed rest from her many household cares and labor to enable her to secure from the doctor the maximum of its benefits. It is a matter of frequent experience to see in his extensive practice in these cases to meet with those in which his treatment fails by reason of the patient's inability to abstain from hard work long enough to be cured. With these suggestions from prolixus antevension and retroversion of ovaries, or other displacement of the womanly organs, it is very necessary that, in addition to taking his "Favorite Prescription" they abstain from working very much, or for long periods, on their feet, and, if necessary, or straining of any kind should also be avoided. As an out-door air should be as possible, with moderate light exercise is also very important. Let the patient observe these rules and the "Favorite Prescription" will do the rest.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps for per-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound.

Is Not True.

The year drawing to a close will have 53 Sundays. It is said that this will not occur again for 110 years.

The above paragraph has been going the rounds of the press and a few moments thought will convince the reader that this is not true. The ordinary year has fifty-two weeks and one day; leap year, fifty-two weeks and two days, and these extra days will soon use up the week and bring another year with extra Sunday. So far from being 110 years, 1911 will have fifty-three Sundays, so will 1916, and no matter what year you start from you will find another year with that number of Sunday within six years or less.

Are Elephants Becoming Extinct?

C. G. Schillings, the eminent German naturalist, whose specialty is photographing wild beasts in African jungles, makes the prediction in his lately published volume, With Flashlight and Rifle (Harpers), that the day is not far off when to the question "Quid novi ex Africa?" the answer must be given: "They have killed the last of the African elephants."

It is the billiard hall, avers Herr Schillings, that is responsible for their extermination. "It seems strange, but it is true," he says, "that the innocent billiard-players of civilized countries are largely responsible for the almost total extinction of the African elephant. There is no material from which the best quality of balls may be turned on the lathe, so soft and so elastic as the ivory tusk of the female elephant."

Things to Think About.

The Methodists of this country have undertaken the task of raising $250,000 for an Indian jubilee fund.

Valuable dogs are often vaccinated, as these animals are quite susceptible to smallpox.

Government engineers are mapping Puget Sound for mines and torpedo stations. Mine equipment that cost $500,000 is stored near Fort Ward. It is expected to be in place by the first of the year.

During the recent yellow fever epidemic in New Orleans not one case made its appearance among the soldiers of Jackson Barracks, only 150 feet from the nearest infected point.

Italian prisons got so full this year that the government had to resort to royal clemency to some of the occupants in order to make room for delinquents crowded out. A decree was issued last August and since then 1,536 prisoners have been pardoned, and 3,072 have had their sentences reduced.

Some low water alarms for boilers are made dependent for operation upon the melting of a fusible alloy exposed to the heat of the season. When the water falls and the temperature rises the melting of the alloy releases a weight-actuated circuit closer and rings a bell.

A large centrifugal pump at a Brighton (England) bath stopped working, and an examination revealed the presence in a pipe of a pigeon's nest with two eggs. To reach its nest the bird had to find its way through a six-inch diameter pipe—horizontal for six feet, and bending sharply into a six-foot perpendicular.

One of the courts in Paris is occupied with a case against a picture dealer who sold what he asserted was a genuine Raphael for $16,000. The buyer paid $2,000 down, then discovered that the dealer had bought the picture for twenty francs. He wants his $2,000 back, but three experts have pronounced the painting genuine.

The momentum of a swift flying bird is considerable. A partridge flew against a window of the gymnasium at Williams College the other day, crashing through the glass and falling to the floor dead. The force of the blow may be judged from the fact that the glass was "tripletthic" and not more than 20 by 12 in size.

An Accommodating Witness and Lawyer

"Do you know the prisoner well?" asked the attorney.

"Never knew him ill," replied the witness.

"No levity," said the lawyer. "Now, sir, did you ever see the prisoner at the bar?"

"Took many a drink with him at the bar."

"Answer my question, sir!" roared the lawyer. "How long have you known the prisoner?"

"From two feet up to five feet ten inches."

"Will the court make the—"

"I have, yer worship," said the witness anticipating the lawyer. "I have answered the question. I knew the prisoner when he was a boy of two feet long and a man five feet ten."

"Your honor?"

"It's a fact, yer worship. I'm under oath," persisted the witness.

The lawyer placed his hands on the table in front of him, spread his legs apart, leaned his body over the table and said:

"Will you tell the court what you know about this case?"

"That ain't his name," replied the witness.

"What ain't his name?"

"Case."

"Who said it was?"

"You did. You wanted to know what I knew about this case. His name's Jones."

"Your worship, howled the lawyer, plucking his beard out by the roots, 'will you make this man answer?'"

"Witness," said the magistrate, "you must answer the questions put to you."

"Great Scott! Hain't I been doin' it?" Let him fire away. I'm all ready."

"Then," said the lawyer, "don't beat about the bush any more. You and the prisoner have been friends?"

"Never," promptly responded the witness.

"What! Weren't you summoned here as a friend?"

"No, sir. I was summoned here as a Presbyterian. Nary one of us was ever Friends. He's an old time Baptist without a drop of Quaker in him."

"Stand down!" yelled the lawyer in disgust.

"Hey?"

"Stand down!"

"Can't do it. I'll sit down or stand up!"

"Constable, remove the man from the box."

ROAD 5,000 YEARS OLD.

Scenes Along One of the Most Ancient Highways in the World.
The road from Homs to Hama runs almost due north, a straight white line cutting across the green fields. It is one of the oldest routes in the world. Caravans have been passing along it for at least 5,000 years, just as we saw them—long strings of slow moving camels with their bright colored bags of wheat.

One could almost imagine that Pharaoh was again calling down the corn of Hamath to fill his granaries against the seven years of famine. But even here the old things are passing. Just beyond the long line of camels was a longer line of fellah women, their dirty blue robes kilted above their knees, carrying upon their shoulders baskets of earth and stone for the roadbed of the new French railway.

The carriage road is French, too, and a very good road it is. Some men were repairing it with a most ingenious roller. It was a great round stone, drawn by two oxen and having its axle prolonged by a twenty foot pole, at the end of which a barelegged Arab was fastened to balance the whole affair. If the stone had toppled over the picture of the Arab dangling at the top of the slender flagstaff would have been worth watching.

All along the ride we were reminded of the past. It is a fertile soil, but the very wheatfields are different from ours. Only a few yards in width, they are often of tremendous length. I hesitate to commit myself to figures, but it is certain that the thin, green fields would stretch away in the distance until lost over some little elevation. At one place the road was cut through a hill honeycombed with rock tombs which the hajj said were Jewish.

Every now and then we passed a tell, or great hemispherical mound, built up of the rubbish of a dozen ruined towns, for even as late as Roman times there was a well cultivated and populous country. There is now no lumber available for building purposes, and in a number of villages the houses are all built with conical roofs of stone. Where the rock happens to be of a reddish tinge the houses remind one of nothing so much as a collection of Indian wigwams. Where the stone is white, as at Tell et Biseh, it glitters and sparkles like a fairy city cut out of loaf sugar.—Scribner's Magazine.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Do you always keep an appointment or just claim to?

A woman always thinks her dressmaker keeps half the goods.

Nine-tenths of the things people quarrel over do not make any difference one way or the other.

When the doctor says to you, "Old man, I'm sorry, but you can't live an hour," how will you take it?

A boy is old enough to be welcome in the neighbor girl's parlor long before his sister thinks he is old enough to sit in the parlor at home.

Had the old fashioned children acted like the present generation there would have been no children. Their parents would have beaten them to death.

Every one has his vanity card to play. The preacher gets a man into the fold by telling him of the "great influence" he has upon others.—Atticin Globe.

A Fish's Appetite.

A singular instance of tenacity in the digestion of fish is reported from Sheffield, England. The fish, which was a long four feet long, had what appeared to be an abnormally hard liver. But the cutting up process revealed something far stranger. The supposed hard liver turned out to be nothing else but a piece of stout netting, over two yards long and fourteen inches wide, which had been pressed into the form of a football. How this great mass of indigestible material came to be swallowed by the creature is a mystery, and the suggestion that the fish caught in the toils of a fisherman's net solved the problem of how to escape by devouring his prison walls is not considered scientifically practicable.

Lovers' Hearts.

How old is the emblem of a lover's heart? In the days before metals were used weapons made of stone were formed by prehistoric men. Among the most notable of such ancient weapons are a number of beautifully chipped arrowheads which have been taken to be the work of fairies and have therefore been used as charms from very remote times. In Scotland they are called "elf bolts," and they are so shaped that when the central projection is broken off the semblance of a lover's heart remains.—London Answers.

Keeping Cider.

Where cider is used from the cask, to prevent spoiling in the partly empty cask pour upon the cider a quart of some tasteless oil, such as olive or peanut oil. The oil will form a thin film on the surface of the cider and prevent access of the acetic and putrefactive ferment which is always present in the air.—Southern Farm Magazine.
